

SANDRA TURLEY

Sandra Turley performed the role of Cosette in Les Miserables on Broadway in New York City and was part of the original closing cast. Sandra was invited to perform the role of Cosette in the Shanghai, China premiere of Les Miserables alongside Broadway star, Colm Wilkinson. She received her BFA from Brigham Young University with a major in Music, Dance and Theater. Among her favorite performances are singing for Steve Young's Forever Young Foundation events, singing for the 2004 Republican National Convention and performing as Ariel in Disney World's stage production of The Little Mermaid. Currently, Sandra is a recording artist for Shadow Mountain Records having released two albums "Sandra Turley: On Broadway" (produced by Tyler Castleton, 2012) and "Inside My Soul" (produced by Kurt Bestor, 2014). Sandra performs in select cities across the country as a presenter for Deseret Book's popular Time Out for Women and Time Out for Girls events. Most importantly, Sandra and her wonderful husband, Josh, reside outside of Washington D.C. where they are raising four incredible children.
